

Access to Experts

Dr. Brad Harrington, Executive Director, Boston College Center for Work & Family, Research Professor, Carroll School of Management, Boston College

The Center for Work & Family (CWF) is the country's leading university-based center that assists employers in their efforts to improve the lives of working people and their families. Prior to coming to Boston College, Brad Harrington was an executive with Hewlett-Packard for twenty years. He served in a wide range of business and global leadership assignments in the US and Europe. Brad's teaching and research focuses on career management and work-life integration, leading organizational change, contemporary workforce management strategies, and the changing roles of men at home and in the workplace. He is the author of Career Management and Work/Life Integration: Using Self-Assessment to Navigate Contemporary Careers (Sage Publications, 2007) and was principal author of the report The New Dad: Understanding Fatherhood in a Career Context. Dr Harrington's recent work on fatherhood has garnered international media attention from many outlets including, for example, The New York Times, The Boston Globe, Reuters, CNN, as well as the national newspapers of China, India, and Brazil. Brad holds a BS in Business Administration from Stonehill College, a Master of Arts in Psychology from Boston College, and a doctorate in Human Resource Development from Boston University.

Contact Carol Courter, Manager, Corporate Communications, +1 212 339 0232, courter@conferenceboard.org

The Conference Board is a global, independent business membership and research association working in the public interest. Our mission is unique: to provide the world's leading organizations with the practical knowledge they need to improve their performance and better serve society. The Conference Board is a non-advocacy, not-for-profit entity holding 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt status in the United States of America.

