Joshua Seldman , President , Executive Stamina

Joshua Seldman is a leader in the field of Executive Performance. After years as a professional athlete and world-class fitness coach, he applied his expertise on stamina and endurance to executive development, co-authoring the book Executive Stamina. As an executive coach to many Fortune 500 CEO's and their teams, Joshua has a unique understanding of the demands on today's leaders, and works with companies all over the world to develop specialized programs that target work-life balance, productivity, and leadership performance. Some of his recent clients include GE, PepsiCo, Barclays Capital, Disney, Qualcomm, Becton Dickinson, and T. Rowe Price. Joshua served as a consultant for the United Nations Development Program on work-life balance and productivity.

Joshua spent seven years as a professional athlete, during which he was honored as a twelve-hour and twenty four-hour solo mountain bike champion, and also had the pleasure of serving as a lead coach for Lance Armstrong's Tour of Hope ride across the U.S.
