

Bryan Hancock

Partner, Atlanta Office
McKinsey and Company

Bryan Hancock is a partner in the Atlanta office of McKinsey and Company. Hancock is a leader of the firm's service on human capital management. Currently, he serves clients in retail, airlines, manufacturing, healthcare, the public and social sectors, and professional services on a range of strategy and organization topics, with a focus on workforce and human capital development. Hancock has also been a faculty member at McKinsey's "Change Leaders Forums."

Hancock holds a J.D. from Harvard Law School and a bachelor's degree in Government and Foreign Affairs from the University of Virginia.