

Jessica Kim

CEO & Co-founder
ianacare

Jessica Kim is the co-founder/CEO of ianacare, the next generation of support for working caregivers. The platform leverages a powerful combination of technology + personalized navigation to organize and mobilize all the layers of support. Her dedication stems from being the primary caregiver for her mom who fought a seven-year battle with pancreatic cancer. Jessica is a 3x startup founder, speaker, and caregiving advocate. Her honors include Crain's Top 40 under 40, Forbes Next 1000, and Woman in Digital Health Award 2020. She served as the inaugural EIR & Presidential Council advisor at Brown University & as a Venture Partner at Praxis Labs. She graduated from Brown University and received her MBA from Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management. She lives in Boston with her three young children, husband, and 83-year-old father.
