

Jon Khoo

Head of Sustainability (EAAA)
Interface

Jon Khoo is the Head of Sustainability (EAAA) at Interface with a focus on sustainability, inclusive business, and intrapreneurship. Jon specializes in the commercialization of Interface's sustainability initiatives and response to the current climate emergency, such as its mission Climate Take Back—to run its business in a way that reverses the effects of global warming.

He was a key part of developing Interface and the Zoological Society of London's (ZSL) Net-Works™ partnership, a community-based supply chain for discarded fishing nets that provides access to finance and seeks to provide long-term conservation benefits.

Jon is also the host of the podcast Designing With Climate In Mind a series of interviews with experts taking an in-depth look into the ever-evolving world of sustainable design.

Jon currently serves on the trustee board of UK environmental charity, Surfers Against Sewage.