

Will Baltrus

Former Associate Economist
The Conference Board

The following is a bio of a former employee/consultant

Will Baltrus is an associate economist for the labor markets team within the Economy, Strategy, and Finance Center at The Conference Board. He specializes in labor market data procurement, analysis, and visualization. He is also responsible for the publication of The Conference Board's proprietary Employment Trends Index (ETI) and Help Wanted Online Index (HWOL). Prior to becoming a full-time employee in August of 2023, he worked as a research assistant for the labor markets team. Will holds an honorary B.A. in Economics from Occidental College in Los Angeles, California. There he also worked as a research and teaching assistant in applied econometrics.

Publications by Will Baltrus

Briefs

- Payrolls Surge, Sticky Wages Urge Fed Patience
07 June, 2024
- Slower Payroll Gains Won't Satisfy the Fed
03 May, 2024
- Employment Report Poses Some Risk to Fed Cut Timing
05 April, 2024

Databases

- AI and Automation Risk Index
21 August, 2024
- Job Loss Risk Index
05 April, 2023

Reports

- Is Your Firm at Risk of Labor Shortages?
12 July, 2024
- Trouble for Wind Energy Ahead?
11 May, 2023
- Job Loss Risk Index: Which Industries Will Suffer the Greatest Layoffs?
29 March, 2023
- Charge it! Challenges for the Growth of Electric Vehicles in the US
09 December, 2022