

Danielle Barrieau

Director - Analytic Consulting
Artemis by Nomi Health

Danielle Barrieau is the Director of Artemis' Analytic Consulting Team. She has more than two decades of experience in the healthcare industry working with employers, brokers, and consultants to leverage data assets to drive actionable outcomes. She represents the organization as the key analytic point of contact for Artemis Health's customers and collaborating with other internal teams to bring forward the voice of the customer to new products. Danielle's focus includes helping self-funded clients, across all industries, evolve decision making regarding their health plans – to identify what factors are driving utilization, cost and population health risk and to develop strategic solutions to improve plan performance.