

Kelli Clark

Director of Sales, Employer Solutions
Certilytics

Kelli is responsible for sales consultation and strategic business development for Certilytics, leveraging her decade worth of experience in the health care space to support self-funded employers, benefits consultants, and clinical point solution and digital health companies. Having worked both directly with specialty healthcare providers as a product consultant and with leadership at enterprise organizations that ranged from 150 employees to Fortune 25 companies, Kelli emphasizes an advisory approach where she offers creative and effective solutions after understanding a client's business problems. Throughout her career she has also been the recipient of multiple President's Clubs and sales awards.
