

Greg Green

Director
MSK Direct Business Development

Greg Green is the Director of Business Development for MSK Direct, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center's program for employers and unions. In this role, he works with employers and unions across the country to reduce the burden of cancer for their employees and their family members. He's been with MSK for over 3 years and his favorite part of the job is hearing from patients whose cancer journey is a little less scary because of this program.

Before joining MSK, Greg spent 10 years in hospital consulting, working with hospitals across the nation on technology and operational improvement projects. Greg has undergraduate degrees from the University of Kansas and a Master's in Public Health from Yale University.
