

Sheila M. Karpe

Research Associate, Asia
The Conference Board

Sheila M. Karpe is responsible for performing secondary research around workforce changes and new approaches to attracting, developing, and retaining talent to support the Center for Human Capital outputs. In her role as Research Associate, Asia, she synthesizes data across articles, focus groups, and interviews to ensure the most current trends and thinking are captured, gleans data-driven insights based on comprehensive research and reviews as well as edits research reports and articles for The Asia Human Capital Center.

Sheila graduated from Temple University Fort Washington, PA, with a master's degree in Quality Assurance and Regulatory Affairs.

Publications by Sheila M. Karpe

Reports

- Baby Boomers in Asia
25 August, 2024
- Beyond Credos on the Wall: Cascading Corporate Purpose
30 April, 2024
- What Matters Most to Asia CHROs in 2024?
28 February, 2024
- The Invisible but Invaluable Workforce
18 December, 2023