

Maureen Calabrese

Chief People Officer
Modern Health

Maureen leads Modern Health's people function with the primary mission to work across the organization to cultivate and care for the culture and systems that enable every member of the Modsquad to do important work well. Previously, Maureen was the Chief People Officer at Sprout and Cision. Other roles include a stint in marketing for General Mills, Nielsen, and Ipsos. She holds a BSBA from the University of Denver and an MBA from Kellogg School of Management. When not at work, Maureen is a hockey mom who spends her time traveling with her husband and 3 children between ice rinks.