

Will Walters

Regional Director, National Accounts
Big Health

Will Walters is the Director of National Accounts at Big Health, a digital therapeutics company focused on the most common mental health conditions including: insomnia, anxiety, and depression. Big Health's solutions create access to effective mental health care in the US and abroad through partnerships with employers, PBMs, and governments. With a passion for mental health and digital healthcare, he spearheads initiatives aimed at delivering cutting-edge healthcare solutions to large employers and their employees.

Big Health provides significant value to plan sponsors, by empowering employees to access high-quality mental health support conveniently and efficiently. This not only improves clinical outcomes but also fosters a healthier, more productive workforce. Additionally, by reducing healthcare costs and absenteeism related to mental health issues, Big Health's solutions contribute to significant savings for plan sponsors, further enhancing their bottom line.

Will is a seasoned professional with over 25 years of experience in consulting, sales, and marketing. Throughout his career, he has demonstrated a keen ability to leverage his expertise to drive program development and enhance client experiences.