

Lydia Wright

Senior Manager, Global Benefits & Strategy
Atlassian

Lydia Wright is a dedicated Global Benefits Senior Manager with over a decade of experience in designing and implementing innovative Total Rewards strategies. For the past five years, contributed to the instrumental journey Atlassian has experienced, championing the development of tailored global benefits programs that support a diverse, distributed first workforce under our Team Anywhere philosophy. The Atlassian benefits team challenges the status quo by prioritising flexibility, inclusion, and innovation while integrating automation, efficiency, and scalability into their approach.

Passionate about employee wellbeing and overall global benefits, we lean into understanding leading trends that deliver sustainable solutions that enhance the employee experience while driving Atlassian's competitive edge in talent acquisition and retention.