Angela Sheffield
Program Director
The Conference Board

Angela Sheffield is Program Director for The Conference Board Human Capital Analytics Council. She is a former member of The Conference Board Strategic Workforce Planning Council and has served as adjunct faculty of the Strategic Workforce Planning Academy. Angela is currently an Executive Strategic Workforce Planning and Workforce Intelligence Consultant and Coach. Angela's background is a result-oriented business and human resources executive, with expertise in strategic workforce planning and analytics, product management, operations, and finance. She is recognized for successes in changing the way businesses view their talent strategies, market segments and business processes.

In her role as the head of Global Workforce Planning at Applied Materials, she developed the strategic workforce planning function and led global workforce planning and analytics initiatives, focusing on turning workforce intelligence, labor market research, and talent scenario planning into actionable insights that drive business results. Angela has earned both a MBA and CPA.
