

Alejandro Fiorito

Economist
The Conference Board

Alejandro Fiorito is an Economist in the Economy, Strategy & Finance Center at The Conference Board in Brussels. He leads the work on Europe's CEO confidence report, follows energy and climate-related topics and covers the Netherlands, Spain, and the UK.

Prior to joining The Conference Board, he worked at the International Monetary Fund and at the Center for Global Development in Washington DC focusing on macroeconomic projections, monetary policy, and Latin American economies.

He graduated from Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies with an MA in International Economics and Finance and holds a BS in Economics from Universidad Carlos III de Madrid.

Publications by Alejandro Fiorito

Article

- Dollar-Backed Stablecoins: Not a Threat in the EU
09 July, 2025