

Access to Experts

Lee Turlington
Vice President of Global Product
Patagonia

Lee Turlington is Vice President of Global Product at Patagonia. He provides strategic leadership for product design, advanced innovation, global merchandising, and materials development with a fully integrated approach. With over twenty-five years in the outdoor and sports industry, Lee's business tenure has been chiseled by companies large and small, by those that are market leaders as well as market challengers, giving him a broad vantage point keenly suited to address the global challenges that color today's evolving markets. Turlington has held leadership roles in, and helped shape the face and infrastructure of global brands such as The North Face, Fila, and Nike, Inc. Today Lee's role at Patagonia allows for a unique application of his diverse experience in guiding the global product teams to fulfill Patagonia's mission: Make the best product, cause no unnecessary harm, and use business to inspire and implement solutions to the environmental crisis. Lee holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics, from Lenoir-Rhyne University. He is based in the USA in California, and is an American citizen, originally from North Carolina.

Contact Carol Courter, Manager, Corporate Communications, +1 212 339 0232, courter@conferenceboard.org

The Conference Board is a global, independent business membership and research association working in the public interest. Our mission is unique: to provide the world's leading organizations with the practical knowledge they need to improve their performance and better serve society. The Conference Board is a non-advocacy, not-for-profit entity holding 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt status in the United States of America.

www.conference-board.org