

Emma Johnston

Client Relationship Director, Communication Advisory Aon

Emma Johnston is a Client Relationship Director in the Communication Advisory practice, with over 11 years' experience at Aon. She advises large multinational organisations across EMEA on how to use communication as a strategic lever to manage risk and support complex change, taking a pragmatic, tailored approach to deliver results.

Her experience includes working with HR teams on large-scale change management projects, aligning benefits and wellbeing to their EVP, and driving stronger engagement with financial products such as pensions. Emma also plays a key role in developing Aon's Communication Advisory practice across a number of countries in EMEA.