

Brian Robins

Chief Financial Officer
Snowflake

Brian Robins is the Chief Financial Officer at Snowflake, where he is responsible for shaping Snowflake's financial strategies to support its growth and leads the global finance organization, including accounting, internal audit, planning, treasury, tax, reporting, and investor relations.

Brian has over 20 years experience building, leading and advising multi-billion dollar technology companies through complex restructurings, hyper growth and capital markets transactions.

Before joining Snowflake, Brian served as Chief Financial Officer of GitLab Inc., where he was instrumental in achieving a 450% increase in revenue and built significant operating leverage as the company scaled. Prior to GitLab, Brian was CFO of Sisense, Cylance, AlienVault, and Verisign. He currently serves on the Board of Directors of ID.me as a member and as audit committee chair. Brian is also a special advisor at Brighton Park Capital, L.P. and on the Advisory Council at ForgePoint Capital Cybersecurity.

Brian holds a B.S. degree in Finance from Lipscomb University and an M.B.A from Vanderbilt University.