Chris Mead

Global Head, Talent Acquisition
Qnity Electronics

Chris Mead is a passionate Talent Acquisition leader with more than 20 years of experience helping global organisations attract, hire, and develop exceptional talent. Currently leading Global Talent Acquisition at Qnity Electronics, he partners closely with business leaders to build high-performing teams that enable innovation, growth, and business transformation.

Chris believes Talent Acquisition is ultimately about people—creating opportunities, developing careers, and connecting individuals with meaningful work. He is a strong advocate for exceptional candidate experiences, inclusive hiring practices, and building diverse talent pipelines that deliver long-term business success.

Equally passionate about technology, Chris champions the use of AI, analytics, automation, and data-driven insights to modernise recruiting while maintaining a strong human focus. He believes the future of Talent Acquisition lies at the intersection of people, technology, and purpose—combining innovation with authentic human connection to build the teams that make tomorrow’s technologies possible
