

Aabhas Sharma

President & Chief Technology Officer
Hebbia

Aabhas Sharma is the President & Chief Technology Officer at Hebbia, where he leads the technology and product organizations in building AI-powered knowledge work infrastructure. He joined Hebbia after 4.5 years at Found, where he was CTO and one of the first ten employees, helping scale the company from early stage to tens of millions in revenue, from Series A through Series C. Prior to Found, Aabhas spent nearly 6 years at Postmates, rising from engineer to Director of Engineering, Product, and Design for the Delivery Business, overseeing logistics, courier operations, infrastructure, and data platforms through the company's acquisition by Uber. Alongside his operating roles, he's been investing in fintech, platform and infrastructure, security, and developer tooling companies both personally and as a Sequoia scout. At Hebbia, he's focused on solving complex information retrieval challenges at scale, processing millions of documents monthly for investment banks and private credit firms.