

Melissa Anderson

Managing Editor, Agenda
Financial Times

Melissa Anderson is the Managing Editor of Agenda, the Financial Times' publication for public company board directors. She previously covered executive compensation and legal and regulatory issues for corporate boards. Before joining Agenda, she was the editor of The Glass Hammer, a career publication for women in the financial services. She has an MA in Media, Culture, and Communication from NYU and a BA in Anthropology from the College of William and Mary.