

Khwaja Shaik

Chief Technology Officer
IBM

kshaik@tcb.org

Khwaja Shaik is a digitally savvy and cyber-savvy board director with 25+ years of experience in technology, cybersecurity, sustainability, nimble innovation, and fintech. Having worked at prestigious global companies such as IBM, Bank of America, Al Rostamani Group, and PwC, he is globally recognized as an authority in corporate governance, technology governance, startup incubation and digital resilience. Khwaja's guidance is sought after by CEOs and boards worldwide, as he offers valuable counsel on corporate purpose, profitable growth, innovation, digital acceleration, and risk management.

As one of IBM's CTOs and the innovation pro, Khwaja counsels CEOs, Boards, and Startups on Future-Fit Tech strategy with board priorities. Beyond his impressive career, Khwaja's true passion lies in serving others. He firmly believes in anchoring noble purpose with business strategy, championing multistakeholder capitalism. With a deep commitment to societal transformation, he is dedicated to making a lasting impact through social, ethical technology and privacy-enhancing practices.