

Tara Udut

Global Head of Medical Recruitment
Neko Health

Tara Udut is Global Head of Medical Recruitment at Neko Health, where she owns Talent Acquisition strategy end to end, leading the team that staffs Neko's Clinics and MedEx leadership roles and partnering with Medical leadership to scale as needed. A results-driven TA leader and trusted advisor to senior stakeholders, Tara builds high-performing teams and starts with the business challenge, using data to find solutions and efficiencies. She champions a standardized, metrics-led approach to hiring, with AI fluency treated as a core capability for the skills organizations recruits for.

Her career spans over 20 years across financial services, professional services, technology, and healthcare. She has held leadership roles at organizations such as J.P. Morgan Chase, Barclays, Marsh McLennan, where she served as Global Head of Talent Acquisition for Marsh, and Amazon, where she designed and executed global talent acquisition strategies in partnership with business leaders. Tara has lived and worked in London and Singapore.