

Access to Experts

Judy Young

Executive Director

Institute for Ethical Leadership, Rutgers University Business School

Judith M. Young is the Executive Director of the Institute for Ethical Leadership at Rutgers Business School. Judy has over twenty-five years experience focused in Leadership Development, Organizational Effectiveness, Change Management, Learning & Development, Consulting and Human Resources. Judy has extensive experience in the business at Johnson & Johnson, in Management Consulting firms and within the nonprofit sector for Hospital systems. As a business management and organization development consultant, Judy has lead domestic and international projects that focused on the following: Leadership Development, Strategic Planning, Change Management, Performance Improvement, Reengineering/Redesign of business processes, Operational planning and implementation, Team Development, Total Quality Management/Process Excellence, Organizational Effectiveness, Organizational assessment, alignment, structure and design. Judy served as an Adjunct Professor on the graduate level and as a program creator for Seton Hall University's Virtual Program in Corporate Communication. Judy also served as an Adjunct Professor at Brookdale Community College in the undergraduate Communications program. Judy holds a Masters degree in Corporate Communication with a concentration in MBA courses, from Seton Hall University, and a Bachelor of Arts in Communication and English from Montclair State University. Judy earned a certificate from Rutgers University in the Mini MBA Business Essentials Program and completed the Executive Organizational Effectiveness Program at Columbia University.

Contact Carol Courter, Manager, Corporate Communications, +1 212 339 0232, courter@conferenceboard.org

The Conference Board is a global, independent business membership and research association working in the public interest. Our mission is unique: to provide the world's leading organizations with the practical knowledge they need to improve their performance and better serve society. The Conference Board is a non-advocacy, not-for-profit entity holding 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt status in the United States of America.