

Michael Paterra

Research Assistant
The Conference Board

Michael Paterra is a research assistant in the economics department at The Conference Board. He has an undergraduate degree in economics with honors from the University of Delaware and a master's degree in international economics from Fordham University. He has worked on research projects related to labor markets and also works with the International Labor Comparisons program at The Conference Board.

Before joining The Conference Board, he interned with the US Department of State in Naples, Italy, studied emerging markets at the University of Pretoria in South Africa, and recently worked at Center for an Urban Future in New York.