

Access to Experts

Michelle Jing Li

Research Assistant, Human Capital
The Conference Board

Michelle Li is a research assistant in human capital at The Conference Board. She is currently working on Workforce Analytics Institute project. Her research interest is in human capital analytics in Asia. She previously conducted her master research projects on export activity and productivity of corporations in China, and was invited by National University of Singapore for related research program.

She graduated with a Master degree in Economics from Jinan University. She earned her Bachelor in statistics at Hunan Normal University.