

Neil Branch

Neil Branch is a human capital consultant in Deloitte's federal government sector. He has a strong background in strategic planning and delivery of engagement solutions for federal agencies. Additionally, he has worked with agencies on technical change management, HR technology, and strategic communications. Branch has served as a contributor to the Engagement Institute report since 2015. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia where he studied government, public policy, and leadership.