

Agron Nicaj

Associate Economist
The Conference Board

Agron Nicaj is a former Associate Economist with The Conference Board's Help Wanted OnLine (HWOL)® and Labor Markets programs. He was responsible for the production and analysis of the HWOL® Data Series along with research and data analysis on projects related to the U.S. labor market.

Prior to joining The Conference Board, Agron was an Economist for the Consumer Price Index (CPI) program at the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). While at BLS, Agron conducted research on supplementing survey data with administrative sources to collect an outlet sample for CPI pricing. His work involved research, production, and redesign of key CPI surveys to obtain a more representative sample of U.S. consumption habits.

Agron holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from Michigan State University and is currently pursuing a Master of Science degree in Applied Economics from Johns Hopkins University.
