Maggie Robinson

Council Director, Procurement Leadership Council
The Conference Board

Maggie Robinson is the Council Director for The Conference Board Procurement Leadership Council. Maggie has a wide-ranging leadership background, having worked in Supply, Research & Development, and Human Resources functions in addition to Procurement. Prior to setting up her own consultancy company, Maggie was responsible for procurement for the Mars Inc. global service business, MGS, and for leading the global Procurement Service Centre organisation. Maggie's procurement career spans roles in Commodities, Packaging, Logistics, Outsourced Manufacturing, Capital Equipment and Indirects. A passionate advocate of Procurement as a business partner, her experience includes collaborating with stakeholders in transformational outsourcing, setting up a global procurement service centre organisation, managing the consolidation of indirect spend across business units, designing and deploying a global procurement capability programme, and leading change programmes.
