Access to Experts

Marshall Vance

Marshall Vance, PhD, is an accounting professor at Virginia Tech’s Pamplin School of Business. His research examines the design and effects of executive and broad-based compensation plans. Marshall earned his PhD from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. Prior to joining Virginia Tech, Marshall taught at the University of Michigan and the University of Southern California.