

Josh Stevens

President
DayTwo

Josh Stevens has responsibility for the strategy, implementation, and growth of the US market for DayTwo.

Since joining the leadership team in 2017, Josh has developed the company's US strategy, recruited and staffed the US team to support and serve consumers, providers, and employers.

Prior to DayTwo, Josh was CEO of Keas (acquired by Welltok), a health benefits solution for employers that catalyzed employee engagement to utilize healthcare benefits, CRO for YouSendIt (acquired by Western Digital), and Chief Strategy & Revenue Officer for TicketsNow (acquired by Ticketmaster). Prior to TicketsNow, Josh spent 10 years marketing to consumers online at AOL, as the General Manager of eCommerce.

Originally from Boston, Massachusetts, Josh has lived in New York, Illinois, and Virginia. He currently resides in California with his wife and three small children, coaches special Olympics and serves on the investment and audit committees as a Trustee of the Presbyterian Pension Fund.
