

Mark Hugo Lopez

Director, Global Migration and Demography Research
Pew Research Center

Mark Hugo Lopez is director of global migration and demography research at Pew Research Center. He leads planning of the Center's research agenda on international demographic trends, international migration, U.S. immigration trends and the U.S. Latino community. He is an expert on immigration globally and in the U.S., world demography, U.S. Hispanics and Asian Americans. Mark was previously the Center's director of Hispanic research, and prior to that served as the associate director. He is the co-editor of Adjusting to a World in Motion: Trends in Global Migration and Migration Policy.

Mark is a co-author of The Future of the First Amendment and has contributed chapters to several books about voting and young Latinos. Prior to joining Pew Research Center, Mark served as a research assistant professor at the University of Maryland's School of Public Policy and as research director of the Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning and Engagement (CIRCLE). Lopez received his doctorate in economics from Princeton University.

Mark is an author of reports about the Hispanic electorate, Hispanic identity and immigration. Lopez frequently appears in national and international media in both Spanish and English.