

Gurleen Chadha

Former Research Analyst
The Conference Board

Gurleen K. Chadha is a former Research Economist at The Conference Board. Based in New York, she was responsible for closely supporting the monthly US forecast and creating high-stake global macro-economic scenarios. Chadha was responsible for the quarterly US Consumer Spending Outlook and the monthly Business Cycle Indicators Report. She was also contributing to the monthly production and release of Leading Economic Indicators for several European and Asian countries.

Chadha earned her bachelor's degree in economics from University of Delhi, India. She also has a master's degree in economics from Drexel University, USA.