

Dr. Amelie Villeneuve

Global Head of Learning
Standard Chartered Bank

Amelie Villeneuve is currently Global Head of Learning for Standard Chartered Bank, building and accelerating the learning across the bank for building the best experts for today and building global citizens and CEOs for the long term. She also leads SCB's focus on reskilling and building future skills.

Before SCB, Amelie was Global Head of UBS University, and before this, Global Head of Business Leadership Development for Google. Amelie spent nearly 20 years as a consultant, first in mergers and acquisitions, then at Duke Corporate Education and The Corporate Executive Board.

Amelie has been fascinated by transformation at market, organisational and individual level since the beginning of her career on a trading floor in Hong Kong during the Asian Financial Crisis. She has dedicated her work since then to helping clients and organisations see and seize opportunity through turbulence. She has three children and is a competitive amateur horse rider in her spare time.