

Jonathan S. Rubens, MD, MHPE, FACEP, FAAEM, CHIE

Chief Medical Officer
ActiveHealth

Jonathan S. Rubens is the Chief Medical Officer of ActiveHealth Management. He brings more than 25 years of experience as a physician leader in both academic and community settings.

As the Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Rubens leads a multidisciplinary team of physicians, pharmacists and nurses focused on building effective population health management programs and clinical analytic tools to promote evidence-based patient care.

Dr. Rubens has worked for ActiveHealth since 2011 and was previously the Senior Medical Director. He is board-certified in Emergency Medicine, and a fellow of the American College of Emergency Physicians and American Academy of Emergency Medicine.

He earned his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania and his Doctor of Medicine degree from Wake Forest University. After serving as chief resident in Emergency Medicine at the Medical Center of Delaware, Dr. Rubens taught Emergency Medicine at Cornell-Weill Medical College/North Shore University Hospital in New York. He went on to study Health Professions Education and earned his master's degree from the University of Illinois at Chicago. Dr. Rubens is a Certified Health Insurance Executive and has completed executive education at the Kellogg Graduate School of Management at Northwestern University.

Prior to joining ActiveHealth, Dr. Rubens was a full-time attending physician and Vice President and Partner at Regional Emergency Physicians, P.A. in High Point, North Carolina.