Peter Cartwright

Executive Director of Environment, Health and Safety
Dow Corning

Peter Cartwright joined Dow Corning in 1990. As global Science and Technology director for Core Products from 2004 to 2006, Peter led the business in improvements to its portfolio decision-making and commercialization processes, as well as establishing new technology platforms across all product lines. In early 2006, he was named director of Product Stewardship and EHS Public Affairs, a role that expanded to his current position later that year. At that time, Peter joined the Executive Council, bringing executive responsibility for EHS governance and functional excellence into one position.
