Communicating During External Chaos and an Internal Company Transformation
AT&T - the world's largest telecom company - is transforming in a number of ways. Transformation isn’t easy, and when you layer a global pandemic and racial injustice on top, it further complicates the journey. Learn how AT&T is rising to the challenge and what you can do to seamlessly drive change.
Mark Hyde, Assistant VP - Employee Communications, AT&T

11:40 am-12:15 pm
Building Purpose, Loyalty, and Pride @ Qualcomm
Hear how Qualcomm launched a global recognition and communications platform during the Pandemic that modernized their recognition practices, achieved a 90%+ participation rate in 90 days, and significantly moved the needle on employee engagement. By aligning communication, change management, and recognition practices, organizations can increase engagement and create proud, loyal brand ambassadors, who sing your praises on social media.
Christi Gilhoi, Senior Manager of Employee Engagement, Qualcomm

Panel Discussion: How to Demonstrate Your Value to the C–Suite

As communications experts, we see the need to demonstrate our expertise and worth to the C–Suite, but what’s the most effective way to accomplish this without looking like we are posturing? Among the questions we’ll consider as part of this discussion are:

- How do we describe our work?
- How do we ensure alignment with business objectives?
- How do we measure success and present results?
- How do we demonstrate strategic thinking?

Moderator
Jill Christensen, Program Director, The Conference Board

Panelists
Mark Hyde, Assistant VP – Employee Communications, AT&T
Marti Powers, External Relations Country Manager, U.S. & General Manager, Global Shales, Shell
Ashley Morgan, Director, Internal Communications, European Wax Center

ESG: The Communicator’s Roadmap for a New Business Imperative

Increasingly, companies are expected to have a positive impact across a number of non-financial environmental, social, and governance (ESG) dimensions. Stakeholders – including employees, customers, communities, and policymakers – are demanding action and transparency, which has significant implications for a company’s business, brand, and reputation. This session explores why corporate communications is central to an effective ESG strategy and how to drive that message - even in a difficult environment.

Peter Gudritz, Director, Office of the CEO & Executive Communications - Global Public Affairs, Dow

My Students Today are Your Employees Tomorrow: How to Recruit, Retain, and Communicate with Gen-Z

The generational differences that impact workplace communication may not be what you think they are. Gen-Z isn’t necessarily more fluent with or attached to technology than their older cohorts, but they do have different expectations and motivations that are influenced by their collegiate experiences. We’ll discuss what you need to know to engage effectively with young top talent.

Diane Gayeski, Professor of Strategic Communications, Ithaca College

Seven Lessons in Leadership Communications

Needless to say, a 25–year–career in Corporate Communications partnering with senior executives at AT&T, Lucent Technologies, Pfizer, J&J, and Zoetis yields a tremendous amount of valuable lessons learned. In this session, Bill boils down his key takeaways in an effort to help communications professionals navigate the landscape and soar.

Bill Price, VP and Chief Communications Officer, Zoetis

Keys to Keep Stakeholders Informed and Engaged When It’s the Last Thing on the M&A Team’s Mind

When a company is pursuing an acquisition, merger or divestiture, it’s common for ‘the deal’ to take precedence over effective communication. While it’s critical that stakeholders remain in the know and engaged, it’s usually the last thing on the minds of the people who are crunching numbers and making the deal happen. In this session, we’ll dive into how to partner with the M&A team to ensure stakeholder communication and engagement do not take a back seat, in times of potential resistance and change.

Mary Lou Panzano, VP of U.S. Internal Communications, Bayer
