Designing Organizations for Differentiation and Transformational Results

In this pre-conference event free for Change and Transformation Conference registrants, discover innovative frameworks to design and lead business model transformations that help organizations achieve marketplace leadership. Apply the concepts and frameworks to your own organization's transformation challenges.

Looking forward, the one certainty all organizations face is that the nature of customer interactions, solutions delivery, and value creation will require new approaches, tools, and leadership capabilities. This workshop will provide hands-on interaction with innovative and proven tools to design and lead business model change. Participants will take back new strategies for designing and implementing organizational change that enhances organization differentiation, resilience, and agility.

Featured Speakers Include:

Reed DeShler, Principal, AlignOrg Solutions
Ken Thompson, Principal, AlignOrg Solutions

Part 2: Changing Culture and Mindset

1:30 – 2:00 pm

Maintaining a Change Mindset As We Face Our Greatest Challenges

It has always been important to encourage a “Change Mindset,” but that is especially true now, as we continue to work through the COVID-19 pandemic, and as Diversity & Inclusion is thrust even more prominently into the spotlight. For the remainder of 2020 and into 2021, these will continue to be some of the most dominant and challenging issues society faces. So how can we nurture and maintain a Change Mindset to help address both?

During this session we explore:

- What is a change mindset, and how can it help drive performance in the midst of ambiguity?
- How do we use mindsets to drive inclusion and innovation?
- How can your organization develop change mindsets at scale?

Alan Morales, Vice President, Head of Transformative Change, HR Talent & Capability, Prudential Financial

2:00 – 2:30 pm

The Neuroscience of Culture Change

Discover how we can leverage the science of brain processes to help drive culture change, openness to new experiences, and the adoption of new technologies.

Travis Hahler, Global Change and Transformation Lead, Google

3:00 – 3:45 pm Concurrent Sessions

A Change Target and a Change Enabler: Environments that Advance Employee, Consumer, and Community Health

Even before the extraordinary transformative challenges of COVID-19, more and more enterprises were viewing the advancement of healthy environments as a business imperative. In this discussion with leading health executives, explore:

- How health and well-being strategy could become a distinct advantage as companies transform engagement with the staff, community, and consumers;
- How healthy environments could transform and improve performance for employees;
- How the challenges of COVID-19 have accelerated and transformed organizations’ healthy environment priorities;
- Why health and well-being strategy matter, and how health and well-being strategy should align with business strategy.

Marleece Barber, M.D., Chief Medical Officer, Lockheed Martin

Faiyaz Bhojani, M.D., Global Health Lead, Downstream Manufacturing Regional Health Manager, North & South America at Royal Dutch Shell, Shell

Andy Crighton, M.D., Chief Executive Officer, CEO Roundtable on Cancer

Driving Change versus Driving People

A Change initiative is ultimately about changing human behavior, and whatever framework is used, often the process is designed with an underlying assumption of compelling change through positive or negative incentives. It is an assumption that one must “drive people” to change. Yet, even when a change is framed as mandatory, this “driving people” approach all too frequently fails. In this session, we will explore what it means to “Drive Change” rather than “Drive People” – to model change and clear obstacles for others to follow – with specific actionable examples.

April Mills, Business Architect and Principal Consultant, Intel; author, Everyone is a Change Agent

3:45 – 4:00 pm Recap and Introduction to Roundtables

Felicia Chenault, Digital Acceleration, Change & Journey Management, Walmart, Conference Chair
Using customer feature of how the company operates. With self-transformation not as a one success has long been based on embracing ongoing change and technology by the start of this year. How did that transformation prepare the enterprise for challenges, and trauma we would face in the coming months.

Martijn Gribnau, previously Chief Transformation Officer at Genworth Financial and now CEO and Chairman of the Board of de Volksbank, had successfully led a customer-centric transformation in culture and technology by the start of this year. How did that transformation prepare the enterprise for the stunning challenges of 2020? And what does Change leadership require today, when customer-centricity is more important and more meaningful than ever?

Martijn Gribnau, CEO and Chairman of the Board, de Volksbank
Kathleen Barlett, Vice President, Human Resources, Genworth

Part 3:
Customer-Centric Transformations

11:15 am – 11:45 am

Customer-Centric Transformation
While Customers Face Incredible Change
A year ago, most of us would have said that we were living in a world of ever-accelerating change. Of course, we were correct – but did not imagine the unprecedented transformations, challenges, and trauma we would face in the coming months.

methodologies built into the company’s DNA, transformation is continuous. How is that continuous transformation executed and experienced on the front lines?

Starting as a missile combat crew member for the US Air Force, then specializing in business transformations for global market leaders, Intuit Vice President, Business Operations, Consumer Group Tina Muller has long focused on the effective execution of complex change management strategies. Learn how she leads the transformational efforts for Intuit’s Consumer Group, evolving the way the organization works, partners, and collaborates to drive continuous change.

Tina Muller, Vice President, Business Operations, Consumer Group, Intuit

Designing the Organization Around the Customer Leads to Transformational Change
Meeting or exceeding customer expectations is the hope of many organizations, but what does it really take to align the complete organization around the customer? This takes planning and deliberate action – certainly more than platitudes and posters. Transforming an organization to deliver a distinct and unique experience for customers takes a systemic approach to organization design. Learn a framework for undertaking such as transformation and learn how one organization transformed to win with their customers.

Reed Deshler, Principal, AlignOrg Solutions

12:15 – 12:30 pm Break

12:30 – 1:15 pm

Rise of the Transformers
No, this is not the title of the next superhero blockbuster. Instead, we consider the growing ranks of Chief Transformation Officers, and what the trend tells us about how Change and Transformation is prioritized and practiced at truly agile organizations.

Strategies in Action

1:15 – 2:00 pm Concurrent Sessions

CASE STUDY: The Secret Ingredient of Successful Disruptions - Opening Up to Fears
Dawn Food Products – a 100-year-old, family-owned, global maker and distributor of bakery ingredients and supplies – understands that digital disruption will be an essential element of success in the next 100 years. A new platform would allow sales reps to move away from administrative tasks and focus on building relationships and sharing their bakery expertise.
But it also meant new roles and the fears that come with them. Learn how an effort to “get the fear out,” and to encourage speaking up about rather than self-censoring resistance, ultimately helped energize and engage team members around new ways of working.

Arlene Kobos, Senior Vice President & General Manager, Dawn Foods

Joshua Sukenic, Vice President, General Manager, Digital Programs, Dawn Foods

CASE STUDY: Enabling Change from the Ground Up at Bayer

The continued pace of change and innovation, combined with multi-national, multi-divisional organization, provides an opportune, yet challenging environment to drive consistency and enable change at scale. In this case study, learn how repositioning change management as change enablement shifted focus to simplicity and leveraging a network of change enablers as strategic change drivers. We will explore:

- The path to adding value and building capability
- The process of gaining alignment, support, and participation
- Creating or curating consistent tools for use by change practitioners and business leaders
- Key learnings, successes, and challenges along the way

Dr. Drew Kreienkamp, U.S. Organization Effectiveness & Development Lead, Bayer

Elizabeth Dodd, U.S. Talent Management Lead – Consumer Health, Bayer

CASE STUDY: Gaining Alignment Around a New Productivity Measure at Nationwide

Nationwide recently took on the challenge of how to comprehensively measure productivity in an increasingly digitalized, automated, and data-enabled world, to influence performance across its value chain. The result was a new enterprise productivity function established to illuminate the impact of business actions on profitability. Learn how the company gained alignment across stakeholder groups and deployed it to key areas in the organization, resulting in changed behaviors, strengthened cost measurement discipline, and improved performance.

Kobe Osei, Associate Vice President, Business Transformation, Nationwide

2:00 – 2:30 pm Break

Part 5: Data-Driven Change

2:30 – 3:00 pm Concurrent Sessions

Exclusive Research: Leveraging Analytics to Understand the Employee Journey and Design Human-Centered Change

Explore new Conference Board research on how organizations are using analytics to map the employee experience and using human-centered design to reshape it. How is this data-driven understanding of the employee experience affecting Change design?

Solange Charas, Ph.D., Distinguished Principal Research Fellow, The Conference Board

Stela Lupushor, Program Director, Strategic Workforce Planning, Talent Management II and Strategic HR Business Partners Councils, The Conference Board

Data-Driven Story Telling, and Its Power to Drive Change at All Levels

At the heart of data-driven, human-centered change is the ability to connect data to human experience – to tell a story that resonates both logically and emotionally. Explore why data-driven storytelling is powerful whether you are seeking change in the C-Suite or on the front lines and learn through examples of how to successfully blend data and story for maximum impact.

Avanti Paul, Senior Director, S&P Global

3:00 – 3:45 pm

Data-Driven Culture Shifts to Drive Growth

Members of The Conference Board’s Council on Change and Transformation share experiences and insights on the use of data, technology and collaboration to drive culture change for growth.
