BUSINESS–COMMUNITY IMPACT SYMPOSIUM
Nexus of money, intellectual capital, time, and voice leading to critical outcomes

February 10 – 11, 2015

DISCOVER how leading companies are making measurable positive impacts.

LEARN about the new United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and what they mean for business.

EXPERIENCE the Symposium with your new CSR/Philanthropy professional network.
With increasing demands on your company to create social good, a corporate citizenship and philanthropy program is a business imperative.

Join your peers at The Conference Board’s Business–Community Impact Symposium to discover how leading companies are making measurable positive impacts; and gain the tools you need to capitalize on your company’s core competencies, employees, and products to strategically tackle crucial issues.

Who Should Attend?

- Corporate Social Responsibility Executives
- Corporate Contributions Directors
- High Potential Corporate Citizenship Staff
- Community Relations Managers
- Public Affairs Directors
- Employee Engagement Directors
- Corporate Communications Executives
- Brand Managers

What Makes this Symposium Unique?

The Conference Board Councils bring together professional peers in confidential, dynamic, cross-industry communities to learn from each other’s experiences. Join executives from The Conference Board’s Contribution Councils as well as the Global Social Investing Council at the Business–Community Impact Symposium in February to hear how they tackle these key issues:

- Improving Student Achievement Through the Use of Technology
- Creativity as a Tool to Solving Social Issues
- China’s Social Sector

REGISTRATION AND CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST  8 – 8:45 AM

WELCOME AND SETTING THE STAGE  8:45 – 8:55 AM
Jeff Hoffman, Conference Program Director, The Conference Board

GENERAL SESSION A  8:55 – 10 AM
2015 is a critical year on the world stage – the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) end and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) will be launched. Issues range from education, climate change, and gender equality to poverty alleviation. Unlike the MDGs targeted to developing countries, the SDGs are just as relevant in Detroit as they are in Mumbai. Learn how business can engage with the SDGs.

Introduction
Patrick Gaston, President, Western Union Foundation

Moderator
Jennifer Kim Field, Vice President of Global Partnerships, UN Foundation

Speaker
Thomas Anker Christensen, Senior Advisor for Partnerships, Executive Office of the Secretary-General, United Nations

Panelists
John T. Buckley, Global Head, Corporate Social Responsibility, BNY Mellon
Nic Covey, Executive Director, United Nations Relationship and Project 8, Nielsen (Project 8 is a joint partnership between the Conference Board, Nielsen, and the UN Foundation)

GENERAL SESSION B  10 – 10:30 AM
Business as a Force for Good!
Business can and must be a force for good in the world: new approaches to leadership, supporting entrepreneurs to launch and grow businesses and helping businesses to prioritize people and planet along with profit. Uniting great people and entrepreneurial ideas, and reinventing how we live and work are not only good for society, but for the bottom line.

Jean Oelwang, CEO, Virgin Unite, Partner, Virgin Group

NETWORKING BREAK 10:30 – 10:45 AM

GENERAL SESSION C  10:45 – 11:30 AM
Council Perspective: Improving Student Achievement Through the Use of Technology – report out from The Conference Board’s Contributions Council I
Can technology be a game changer? What is the role corporate philanthropy can and should play? This will be a lively discussion about the direction in which technology is headed in schools and how it can make a difference in teaching and learning.

Moderator
Chris Park, Program Director, Contributions Council I, The Conference Board

Panelists
Wendy Drexler, Chief Innovation Officer, International Society for Technology in Education
Janine Ingram, Vice President, Philanthropic Partnerships, MIND Research Institute

Scott Kinney, Senior Vice President, Discovery Education

GENERAL SESSION D  11:30 AM – 12:15 PM
Getting the Word Out
You have an amazing program. The impact is significant. But no one knows about it. This is not an uncommon problem. Learn how to get your message through the clutter. Social media provides an incredible opportunity to reach people; so does traditional media. You aren’t just competing with external forces-positioning your message internally is critical.

Moderator
Kevin Martinez, Vice President, Corporate Citizenship, ESPN

Panelists
Seth Marbin, Program Manager, Social Responsibility, Google
Lauren Mihajlov, Director of Communications, United Health Foundation

GENERAL SESSION E  12:15 – 1:30 PM
Burning Issues Lunch
You choose the topics, you choose where to sit. In the morning, participants will have an opportunity to post a burning issue. Are you having challenges with recruiting volunteers, making grants internationally, getting mid-management to engage? Bring your issues and through peer discussions, go back with real life examples of what works. Unanswered questions will be addressed via Twitter.

GENERAL SESSION F  1:30 – 1:45 PM
Snapshot Detroit
The most recent Conference Board corporate philanthropy conference was held in Detroit. Businesses are part of the coalition revitalizing and re-envisioning this city. Signs of rejuvenation are already visible downtown and in other parts of the city. Hear firsthand how business is part of the solution.

Dalila Wilson-Scott, President, JPMorgan Chase Foundation
Tara Cardone, Head, Global Employee Engagement & Volunteerism, JPMorgan Chase

GENERAL SESSION G  1:45 – 2:30 PM
Volunteers: A Strategic Resource
Corporate volunteers often paint gyms, plant gardens, or clean up beaches, when they could be designing websites, drafting HR handbooks, or creating billing systems. For volunteers to tackle these types of projects, corporations and nonprofits need to think differently about how they collaborate, the role that volunteers can play, and driving impact. Join us for a discussion on corporate volunteers as a strategic resource.

Moderator
Gail Gershon, Executive Director, Community Leadership, Gap Inc.

Panelists
Margaret Coady, Executive Director, CECP
Myung Lee, Executive Director, Cities of Service

Collective Impact
Large-scale social change requires broad cross-sector coordination, yet the social sector remains focused on the isolated intervention of individual organizations. Substantially greater progress could be made in alleviating many of our most serious and complex social problems if nonprofits, governments, businesses, and the public were brought together around a common agenda to create collective impact.
Laura S. L. Herman, Managing Director, FSG

Impact Moment – Digital Opportunity
Interconnectedness is bringing the world together. Still, there are many underserved communities that are either not connected to the internet, or have not yet realized the Web’s full potential.
Sujata Narayan, Senior Manager, Corporate Social Responsibility, Equinix

The Power of Purpose in a Transparent World
Around the world, corporate leaders are stepping up to the ”bully pulpit” making declarations aligning organizational goals with select societal and environmental issues. These actions signify a shift in leadership, where societal issues are becoming integrated into core business strategy and culture. Organizational purpose, social innovation, reputation management, and stakeholder engagement are all at play. Proving the case for integration, and exceptional examples of focused campaigns with deep internal and external resonance will be explored.
Carol Cone, Chair, Edelman Business + Social Purpose
